Hi Jason -

I've copied you into an email to various organisations - I'm potentially going to be going through the court process to draw attention to government corruption and I'll like a fair representation by the press if possible and not just the common and garden reporting of court cases and results. I thought you may be interested in the other side of the story to present a balanced account if I do eventually end up in court. Are you interested?

Bore da,

I've read the email you copied me into. Do let me know if the matter goes to court.

Jason
